Career Development and Resume Builders

There are countless volunteer opportunities, competitions, fellowships, internships and jobs available to you that can build your resume and your skills. While finding a summer internship in an architectural firm, working with a landscape architect, or in a city planning office can be a great way to gain experience, it is not the only avenue for career development. This document is designed to help you identify opportunities for career development, internships, and jobs, and introduce you to organizations related to environmental design that may be of interest, both affiliated with Berkeley (indicated by the asterisk*) and non-Berkeley opportunities. Please remember the Career Center is also a terrific (and free!) resource for help with your resume, interview prep, career exploration, and answer any career related questions. If you are interested in a more "traditional" internship (eg: working at an Architectural Firm) please refer the career center. Remember - there is a lot more out there than can fit on one page, so keep looking and find what is right for you!
