

Checklist for Late or Retroactive Petition to Change Class Schedule

(Fall and Spring semesters only. For Summer, please use the form provided on the summer sessions website – https://summer-app.berkeley.edu/forms/student_record_change/ and attach this checklist)

Name _____ SID _____

Please read carefully: College policy requires students to finalize their course schedules by established deadlines. A schedule change after the deadline requires an exception to the rules by the Dean; therefore, requests for late changes are considered only in the case of extenuating circumstances. Your appeal must include the following: 1) this checklist, 2) a completed Late or Retroactive Petition to Change Class Schedule (attached,) 3) a personal statement, 4) documentation of the extenuating circumstances that led to your request, and 5) faculty verification as needed (see below). Please include your full name and SID number on each page. Incomplete petitions will be denied.

Extenuating circumstances: Events or circumstances beyond your control that had a significant impact on you that 1) prevented you from acting by the relevant deadline, or 2) arose unexpectedly after the deadline.

Among other things, extenuating circumstances do not include:

- Not needing or wanting a class
- Poor performance or not knowing how you are doing in a class
- Not knowing or forgetting procedures or deadlines

Please review the items below and check each box that applies to you.

1. Petition and required signatures

- I have completed and signed my petition. NOTE: Simultaneous degree students need approval from both colleges.
- If I have ever been a member of the NCAA, I have checked the Yes box on the petition and my Faculty Athletic Representative has signed the petition and stamped it with the OFAR stamp.
- If I am asking to add a course or change the number of variable units, I have included the course control number and obtained the signature of the instructor of record (not the GSI or student coordinator).

2. Personal Statement

- I have included a brief personal statement, no longer than one typed page, and the reasons I believe my request merits an exception by the Dean. My statement includes: my full registered name, SID, official UC Berkeley email address, and phone number,
- a clear, chronological explanation of the extenuating circumstances that led to this request and how these circumstances affected my academic work in the course in question (as opposed to my other courses), including relevant and specific dates and facts; and
- an explanation of any delay between the events referred to in my statement and the filing of this petition.

3. Documentation

- I have included all supporting documentation of my extenuating circumstances (verification of changes in employment, medical documentation, accident and police reports, proof of travel, ect.) Note: all medical documentation must be evaluated by the Tang Center in order to be considered by the Dean; University Health Services may then issue you a "Verification/Evaluation of Medical Care" form to be included with your appeal. If you have seen a non-UC Berkeley provider for psychological care, please provide a "Summary of Psychological Care" available at the forms and documents page <http://ced.berkeley.edu/advising/form>, under "Course Enrollment/Planning."

4. Faculty Verification – All letters must be written on department letterhead stationery, signed by the instructor and submitted in a sealed departmental envelope.

- If I am requesting a late add, I have included a letter of support and explanation from the instructor of record or department administrator.
- If I am requesting a late drop, change of grading option, or change of variable units, I have submitted a letter from the instructor describing my academic performance and attendance before and after the circumstances leading to my request.
- If I am asking to add a course, change the grading option, or increase the number of variable units after classes have ended, the instructor's letter should also include my final grade.
